Discover Technologies Announces New Product Suite

Herndon, VA February 15, 2016— Discover Technologies is pleased to announce the creation of the Discover Access suite of products. The Discover Access product line includes a growing set of software products that enable enhanced access for blind and visually impaired end users as well as those users in the field with bandwidth limitations.

The products in the Discover Access Suite work with Microsoft's SharePoint and Skype for Business solutions and K2 smartforms. They are respectively known as:

- Discover Access for SharePoint – previously known as Discover 508
- Discover Access for Skype Business, and
- Discover Access for smartforms – previously known as Accessible SmartForms

Discover Access for Skype Business and Discover Access for smartforms are primarily designed as accessibility solutions for technology that is not readily accessible out of the box. Additionally, Discover Access for SharePoint is already assisting thousands of blind and visually impaired users by providing SharePoint usability on par with that available to sighted users. It is also of great value to aid workers and military personnel in the field, who only have access to SharePoint in low bandwidth environments.

All of the products in the Discover Access suite render value as soon as they are installed, because these products were designed to eliminate the need for custom programming and revision to enable access to the corresponding technologies.
